Archeda presents Essenze

'The handle is a key element: details that make the difference'

A matching point between functionality and aesthetics, the handle is a key element that makes Archeda's Essenze collection unique. Vertical in the primary way, but also horizontal and inset on curved, wall-hung, and floor-standing furniture with or without feet: in addition to their function of opening and closing, handles – an object of ornamentation and customization – become the design touch that determines the character and style of a piece of furniture.

In the wide range of compositional solutions, Essenze also renews the proposal of finishes and decors for doors and tops, and presents new complements and accessories, elements that can be used in any Archeda collection.

About Archeda

Founded in 1996, Archeda is an entity that has found its guiding spirit within a philosophy driven by a strong moral charge. At the heart of the project is the desire to create new emotions by working on shapes and design, conducting research, and focusing on the quality of materials and workmanship, all while respecting ergonomic and functional needs.
